MARN YOUNG AND HIS CRIME

the case and then took it before the grand jury, with the result that there was a new indictment, charging the more serious crime of assault with intent to commit murder, on which he is now awaiting trial.

The evidence against Young is said to be very strong. In fact the confession made to Vida was not the only one he is declared to have made. The trial of the case will, it is said, disclose a confession by him to Sheriff Brown and still another to Mrs. Emmelhut, at whose place the shooting occurred.

Young is said to have shot at one man and hit another. He is a smartly dressed Korean, wearing brilliant light blue stockings, a black suit and a high collar, and having the general appearance of a cheap dude. But in broken English he sticks very firmly to the story of the water cure, the pistol, the threats to kill, and the punches in the body. All this happened in the local prison, and he is now in Oahu jail, where things are different, he says.

The story of the shooting which led to Young's arrest was a peculiar one. Young and another Korean were rivals for the affections of a native woman, and Young appeared to be the losing candidate for her heart. He lay in wait one night and took a shot at his supposed rival. He shot another man and therefore reasons that he is not guilty of the assault, for certainly he never intended to shoot the man he hit, and he appears to think that it was the latter's fault for being around.

Attorney General Peters is making an investigation of the case. He has had the Korean under examination already. The matter is likely, it is said, to be brought before the governor as a that the man was on board, and they kept it to themselves.

At about eight o'clock on the evening of July 11, a report was made to the chief boatswain that a stowaway had fallen through a hatch and was injured. He was lying in the hold. The boatswain, according to the witnesses this morning, ordered that the man be thrown overboard. The man lay writhing in agony, but not the slightest effort to help him was made, except by one man.

"Although I was ordered to throw him overboard," said the witness Haseu, one of the seamen this morning, "still he was a human being and I couldn't do that. I got a bucket of water and took it down intending to help him."

At twelve Haseu went off watch and the order to throw the man overboard was carried out. Three men, Hoshiyama, Sakai and the second boatswain, said the witness, lifted the injured man by ropes tied to him or the dead body which ever it was, from the hold. "They threw it overboard on the port side, in front of the foremast rigging," said Haseu.

"Was the man dead?" asked Commissioner Maling at this point.

"Yes," said Haseu.

"How do you know?" asked Breckons.

The witness said the second boatswain and another Jap told him so. That was all he knew about it. The men who told him so were two of the men who tied the rope to the body and lifted it up. The three were the second boatswain, Sakai and Yokomoto.

All this happened without Captain Amherman even knowing that he had ever had a stowaway on board. After arrival here, however, they began to be rumors about the strange occurrence, and it was reported that a Japanese had been thrown overboard while alive, and his money and effects stolen. The descriptions of his condition so far given, when he was last seen, indicate that he was alive when his brutal companions cast his body into the sea. As far as the vessel was concerned that ended the incident, until Honolulu was reached, but there will be a rigid investigation here.

The boatswain of the vessel, getting word of the investigation that was under way, disappeared and this morning a warrant for his apprehension was issued.

One theory of the case is that the men who threw the body over were in collusion with the unfortunate stowaway and were getting him a passage here. When he received injuries it was evident that if he remained on board and was treated they were likely to be discovered, hence they determined to throw him over. Another possibility is that knowing of his possession of considerable money they carried out a conspiracy to get rid of him by throwing him into the hold and then getting rid of the body.

COMPLAINTS OF BAD FISH

PINKHAM SAYS A LARGE SHIPMENT WAS IMPORTED BY A WHITE FIRM.

The complaints that bad fish has recently been sold at the fish market are thought to be possibly traceable to a large shipment received by a local haole grocery store from California. It was a consignment of $1,500 worth of salmon, which after it had been sent out was complain of. The company at once began trying to get it back.

"The matter was reported to me just before I went to Molokai ten days ago," said President Pinkham of the Board of Health, "and it is the only complaint I have heard about bad fish being offered for sale. Efforts were at once made to stop the sale of the fish. The firm which received it, a large local firm, was most anxious to get it back. There was a shipment of $1,500 worth."

SAY THE DELEGATE MUST BE A HAWAIIAN

The hall was crowded with Home Rulers and the prospects were bright for an interesting session. Among the prominent Home Rulers present were Judge John W. Kalua of Maui, ex-Senator Kachi of Hawaii, ex-Representative William Mossman, Rev. J. Kekipi, S. Kanaa and Kaula.

On the platform were President Charles Nottley, Vice-President William Mossman and Secretary David Kuphea.

President Nottley called the meeting to order and asked Rev. Kekipi to lead in prayer.

The committee to look into the credentials was then appointed. They were J. Nakookoo for Oahu, C. L. Kookoo for Maui, D. H. Kahalelo for Molokai.

Mr. Mahoe of Waialua thought and moved that the members present should be counted out. Found no second.

Mr. Poepee said that instead of wasting time the committee on credentials would decide the question and announce the result.

D. Kalaokalani asked for a recess of five minutes in order to give the committee a chance to report. The recess was taken.

It was reported before the convention met that several warm debates would result. It was also reported that Charles Nottley would get the nomination for Delegate to Washington.

At the end of the 5-minute recess the convention was again called to order. The committee was not ready to report so another recess was taken.

It was 11:20 a. m. when the committee was finally ready to report.

L. Kookoo, a member of the committee, read the report which showed the following number of delegates: Hawaii, 12; Maui, 50; Oahu, 50; Kaula, 7, making a total of 123.

Judge Kalua asked for the approval of the report. It was approved.

Mr. Meheula asked that the delegates be separated from the spectators all of which were seated with the delegates. Motion was carried. The delegates were also grouped according to their homes.

Recess was taken at 12 noon until 1:30 p. m.

At noon the delegates were given a luncheon by the Home Rule women in the rear of the dance hall. They were invited to the luncheon by the chairman, Charles K. Nottley.

Roll call was the next thing on the program. The roll showed 95 delegates present and 47 responded by proxy.

The afternoon session opened at 1:30 sharp. The first business transacted was the adoption of the roll call.

The minutes of the previous convention were not read for those minutes were adopted by the convention of 1905 at the close of their session.

A question was here raised as to what rules governed the body. It was decided to abide by the same rules as the previous convention had.

The regular business of the convention began when the clerk read a protest against fusion with the Democratic party from north Hawaii signed by 55 voters of that section. It was referred to a committee for report. The committee appointed consisted of D. Kalaokalani, Sr., and J. K. Nakookoo.

Another protest from the Leper Settlement on Molokai was read against fusion. It was in the form of a letter to C. L. Kookoo, one of the delegates asking him to work work against fusion.

The reason for their letter lies in the fact that over two-thirds of the Leper Settlement are Home Rulers and are confident of carrying that island. They do not wish fusion. Delegate Mahoe of Waialua thought that the letter should be returned to the writer as it was not addressed to the convention but to a delegate.

J. M. Poepee addressed the body and stated that though the protest was addressed to a delegate, yet he represented the people who wrote it and he was presenting the matter to the convention.

It was finally decided to admit it and it was given to the committee.

J. M. Poepee introduced a resolution to the effect that the Home Rulers do not fuse with any other party. He stated that the Home Rulers had been misrepresented by some people and that the party was losing their standing.

The resolution was referred to a committee chosen from the different islands for report.

J. Kaulamaki made a motion to elect executive officers of the party. An objection was raised on the point of time. It was finally left for future action. The resolution went to a committee.

A letter of thanks was given to the waialeas for the luncheon provided at noon. J. M. Poepee introduced the motion. D. Kahalelo said not to be too much of a hurry in thanking the girls for fear they would not get second luncheon. The discussion that followed consumed some twenty minutes of the convention's time.

The Home Rule platform was read. It states that the time is not yet ripe for the Home Rule party to fuse.

VIDA TELLS HOW KOREAN CONFESSED

SAYS IT WAS WHEN CONFRONTED WITH WITNESS AND NOT AFTER BEING MALTREATED.

"The charges of brutal treatment made against myself by the Korean Y. Marn Young are absolutely without foundation," said Assistant Sheriff Henry Vida this morning. "There was never any brutal methods adopted to secure a confession from him. The man broke down and confessed his guilt when we were able to produce the man to whom he had sold the pistol and to produce the pistol as well."

When the Korean was first taken into custody he made a statement regarding his movements before and after the shooting of the other Korean. Young denied at first having shot the other man and denied having had any pistol. We investigated the statements made by him and found them to be false. He had told us various places he had been, about the time of the shooting. These statements were investigated and found to be false. The inquiry into these statements was the cause of delay in the further examination of the man.

Finally when he found the Korean to whom the suspected man had sold the weapon, with which Chan San Duk had been shot, Young broke down and admitted his guilt. He admitted that he had shot Chan San Duk. The first thing Young said when we produced the Korean, who had bought the gun was "well, I suppose he told you everything," and then Young proceeded to confess.

"We did not use any water cure, or threaten him or do anything of the kind. We were two days finally securing the evidence which resulted in discrediting his first story and also in securing evidence that caused him to confess. The statement that he had been without food for any time is false. The man was fed regularly along with other prisoners in the station."

pepe Valley. A trip is planned to the mill and through the fields of the plantation, and as a fitting close to the day bathing suits will be provided or a dip in the ocean at Lawai, and there a luncheon will be served under the coconut trees in true native style. After the luncheon a trip will be made to Koloa where the Mauna Loa will take her passengers aboard and return to Honolulu, leaving Koloa at 11 p. m.

Mr. W. A. Kinney is now on Kaula and will make all necessary arrangements for the entertainment of the guests at Waialea. Mr. William Stodart, manager of the McBryde Sugar Company, and Mr. Walter McBryde will act as hosts at McBryde and Lawai.

The trip around the Na Pali side of the island is one rarely taken by the steamers and this coast is inaccessible by land. The citizens of Kaula occasionally charter the Mikahala to make the trip from Waimea to Hanalei, and are loud in their praises of the wonderful beauty of this coast line.

GETS LICENSE

The Waimea Wine Company, of Waimea, Kauai, gets its license by the decision of the Board of Arbitrators, with W. O. Smith dissenting. The other members of the board were J. W. Catheart and A. McBryde. Smith does not state outright that the license should not issue, but he wants further evidence before deciding as to the validity of signatures on the protest against the company, which signatures the other two members of the board hold to have been shown to be valid.

PAYMASTER MAY DEPART.

Paymaster I. T. Hagner at the naval station received a private cable this morning announcing that he had been ordered home. The cable did not state whether he was to be ordered to Washington to take his examination and then return to Honolulu, or else he would be relieved by some other officer so that Hagner could go to sea. It is likely that the official order will direct him to go to Washington for reassignment to sea duty.

They should wait until after Hawaii has become a state.

Objection was raised to the "color line" party.

It was stated that the delegate to Washington should be an Hawaiian instead of a white man for it would be against the best interests of the Home Rule party to elect a white man. The platform favors the raising of wages throughout the Territory for laborers.

It was moved and carried that the platform be left in the hands of the committee representing the different islands. The committee retired to report and were still out when this edition went to press.
